Multicultural Issues in the Deaf World

Explores a variety of issues facing various ethnic deaf groups in American society. Considers how these groups express their concerns out of People of Color, Woman, Queer, DeafDisabled, and CODA experiences that help to define issues of political, economic and social impact. Also discusses how the members of these groups constitute American "eyes/hands", which create communities on various topics, questions, and themes having cultural, historical, and contemporary significance for shaping discourse in the United States.
